No. No exceptions. Our law does not provide for either.

I failed the exam. Can I have my exam regraded?

Yes. NCEES charges $75 to regrade an exam. The request and $75 check made payable to NCEES must be sent to the Board office within 30 days of your exam results. NCEES will be forwarded your request and fee. They will then take the scoring template and place it over your answer sheet to ensure the computer scored your exam correctly. There has never been a change in exam scores based on this regrade method.

I failed the exam. Why can't I review my exam?

NCEES reserves the right to repeat questions, and the integrity of the questions is compromised by overexposure. If some examinees are allowed to review questions, it may give them an unfair advantage over other examinees. NCEES has provided a diagnostic report that should help you determine the area you need to improve.

How does NCEES score the exams?

Go to NCEES' website - www.ncees.org under Exam Scoring to answer all questions concerning scoring of the exam.

Can I find out my score?

No. We only release the results as pass or fail. If you fail, you will receive a diagnostic report to help you determine where you need to improve.

When are admission cards mailed?

After you have completed Step 2 of the exam registration process, ELSSES will notify you by email approximately 21 days prior to the exam that you can download your admission notice from their website.

Where can I find study material?

NCEES has study material for the FLS exam on their website - www.ncees.org.

What is covered on the exams?
